

Carillon Our Home - A Collection of Stories by Basil Moss

Written circa 2014

Explanation

---

While the stories I tell in this new online book are quite varied and cover many subjects, I have chosen to entitle it CARILLON OUR HOME. The reason for that choice lies in the fact that all of these stories were written in the Carillon Creative Writing Class. The poem that follows sets the tone for my feelings about Carillon Assisted Living Facility.

Chapter 1 - Carillon Our Home

From farms and towns and villas, and sprawling cities grand,
We've come to be with others, from all across this land.
We gladly share our backgrounds, whatever they may be.
We're from a group of citizens that some have called the best.
We won't dwell on that point but leave it to the rest,
To understand we loved them, and we fought to keep them free.
We've done a lot of living, as o'er the world we roamed,
But we are now we're well settled at a place we call our home.
Out in the West of Lubbock where our future plans are gone,
We live our lives in happiness at charming Carillon.
A lovely field of greenery holds houses large and tall.
And well deserving elders, occupy them all.

So come on out and have a look at our joyful habitation,
And share with us the pleasures of an older generation.
